That Mrs Dunne take the chair of the Assembly as Speaker.

There being more than one candidate proposed, the election of a Speaker will proceed by ballot. Ballot papers will now be distributed.

A ballot having been taken—

The Clerk announced the result of the ballot: Ms Burch, 14 votes; Mrs Dunne, 11 votes; therefore, Ms Burch, the candidate with the majority of votes of members present and voting, is declared elected as Speaker.

Madam Speaker having taken the chair—

MADAM SPEAKER: I thank all members for their support. It is an absolute honour to assume this position. This is a place for scrutiny and vigorous debate but it will also be the place for respect and regard.

Election of Chief Minister

MADAM SPEAKER: The next item of business is the election of a Chief Minister.

MS BERRY (Ginninderra) (10.26): I propose Mr Andrew Barr, and I move:

That Mr Barr be elected Chief Minister for the Territory.

MADAM SPEAKER: Does the member accept the nomination?

MR BARR: I do, Madam Speaker.

MADAM SPEAKER: Is there any further proposal?

MS LAWDER (Brindabella) (10.27): I propose Alistair Coe, and I move:

That Mr Coe be elected Chief Minister for the Territory.

MADAM SPEAKER: Does the member accept the nomination?

MR COE: I do.

MADAM SPEAKER: Is there any further proposal? There being no further proposals and the time for proposals having expired, the election of Chief Minister will proceed by ballot. Ballot papers will be distributed.

A ballot having been taken—

MADAM SPEAKER: The result of the ballot is: Mr Barr, 14 votes; Mr Coe, 11 votes. Therefore Mr Barr, the candidate with the majority of votes of members present and voting, is declared Chief Minister. Chief Minister, I invite you to take the Chief Minister's seat at the table.

MR BARR (Kurrajong—Chief Minister), by leave: Thank you, Madam Speaker, and I thank colleagues for their support today. I particularly want to thank the people of Canberra for the privilege of being able to serve as their Chief Minister for the next four years.

Madam Speaker, I congratulate you on your election. You have ably demonstrated as the Deputy Speaker in the previous Assembly your capacity to undertake what we all know can be a very challenging job. On behalf of all members in this place, I wish you all the best in your important new role.

I would also this morning like to congratulate and warmly welcome all of the new and returning members. Representing your community in this place is a great honour. I know how hard you have all worked to engage with your local communities during this campaign and I look forward to working with each of you in the coming four years.

This morning I would like to extend a particular welcome to my seven new Labor caucus colleagues. This is a diverse, local, talented and renewed Labor team. Newly elected Labor MLAs include planners, mathematicians, lawyers, early childhood specialists, community activists and policy experts. Welcome to you all. It is a great honour and privilege to lead you in this place. I am immensely proud of your achievements so far and I know that this is just a further chapter in your contribution to this city.

It should be acknowledged and celebrated that this is the first time in Australian political history that a parliament has more women than men. This represents another first for the ACT, something that we can all be proud of. By reflecting the diversity of our community I am confident that together we can serve them better. This parliament is demographically more representative than others before it, with members aged in their 20s, 30s, 40s, 50s and 60s.

From the first Ngunnawal people who called this place home, through the birth of a national capital, to the mature and confident city of today, Canberra people have built a life here: in our suburbs, in our schools, in the public service and in business, in our universities and in our community organisations. We are all proud to call Canberra home.

For 40 years I have lived and breathed this city. In that time I have seen Canberra emerge as a global city, a city leading Australia in renewable energy targets, in higher education and in the adoption of new technology.

Over the years Canberrans have chosen Labor governments to help them reach their potential, to support their lives, to support their choices and to back them in. As I said when I launched Labor's campaign for this election, I have never believed that Canberra is a Labor city but what I do believe is that Labor is a Canberra party. I know our party and I know my colleagues. I know we all love Canberra. We love our inclusive and welcoming community and natural spaces and bushlands. Together, we want to keep the city we love and build a positive new future.

By re-electing my government, Canberrans have voted for a positive vision, a vision of a confident and self-reliant city where everyone is welcome and where everyone has the opportunity to reach their full potential. I thank the people of Canberra for supporting our positive plan for this city. They have endorsed our focus on making health care and education even better for everyone and not just for those who can afford it.

They overwhelmingly voted to avoid becoming gridlocked by backing light rail. Canberrans have said loudly and clearly that they want a city that confidently faces the future, a future of health care when and where you need it, of world-class learning spaces and tools and of well-paid and secure jobs in a diversified economy; a Canberra that is powered 100 per cent by renewable energy and a city where you can move around on convenient, reliable and affordable public transport.

So let us be clear on this matter once and for all: Labor took a commitment to start light rail to the 2012 election. We were elected and we delivered on that commitment. We took a commitment to stage 2 of light rail to the 2016 election. We have been elected and we will deliver on that commitment. The mandate is clear: Canberrans want investment in public transport; Canberrans want light rail.

With Canberra growing by 5,000 people every year, it is simply impossible for us now to turn back to being a small, provincial country town and it would be irresponsible to suggest otherwise. This government has been re-elected to ensure that planning for our growing city does not mean that we lose the Canberra that we all love.

Ours will always be a city of lakes but ours is a city of bridges too, of the things we build and of the projects we share. We are a community with ambition in a city with advantage, and it is our job as a re-elected government to realise that ambition by capitalising on our advantages—advantages like being a smart, livable city that has enormous potential. We will work to diversify our economy and play to our city's strengths in higher education, research and technology. With great health care, education, transport and public amenities we will make the world's most livable city a place where people come to visit and a place where people stay, a place to grow businesses and a place to raise families.

We have been re-elected to deliver a 10-year healthcare plan that delivers care when you need it: real care in real hospitals, five nurse-led walk-in centres and more bulk-billing practices. We have been re-elected to continue to deliver an education system where every child can reach their potential in a diverse economy supporting well-paid and secure jobs and with a plan to build the infrastructure that Canberra needs. Our first 100 days of government will set these priorities in action.

The government will commence scoping and design for the new nurse-led walk-in centres and the expansion of the women's and children's hospital. We will start procurement of new tech devices for every high school student and we will continue to fund the safe schools program so that Canberra schools remain safe schools for all students.

We have been re-elected to invest further in public transport and in the first 100 days we will release the schedule for all our new rapid bus services to hit the road in this term and commence the staging and design of the second stage of light rail to Woden. We have been re-elected to progress the rollout of green bins by procuring and planning the pilot scheme and giving Weston Creek and Kambah communities their clear start dates. We have been re-elected to join California and South Australia as signatories to the Under 2 MOU and to set firm targets to get to zero emissions by 2050. We will do both of these things within the first 100 days.

The government I lead is working to create a vibrant and renewed city, one that is proud of its own unique identity. We are optimistically confronting the new challenges and the new opportunities that city life in the 21st century offers. Now is the time to be bold, not to retreat into our shell in the face of wider economic uncertainty. We are no longer Sydney's or Melbourne's little brother. We stand as a city proudly in our own right.

Now is the time to demonstrate pride in the Canberra of today and to also set out a clear vision of what Canberra can be in the future. We are doing that by investing in transport infrastructure to create a strong, new urban spine for our city and to drive urban renewal to give our residents a wider range of housing choices and economic opportunity. We want to see our city centre prosper and evolve. A confident, a bustling and a growing city needs a vibrant CBD, and we will deliver that outcome with a new delivery agency established to guide this important work.

I would like to take a moment this morning to acknowledge the former opposition leader, Jeremy Hanson. Jeremy, thank you for what was a hard fought and challenging campaign, but it was one that was focused on the issues, as we discussed before the campaign. We both honoured that commitment. Thank you and I wish you the best in whatever role the Leader of the Opposition decides for you in this place.

Congratulations to Alistair Coe and to Nicole Lawder. Leading a political party in this place is a great honour. I know you have stepped forward to this challenge, and I look forward to working with you. There will be times, undoubtedly, when we will disagree on policy and on politics. However, I am optimistic that there are times when we will agree and we can work constructively together, and I look forward to that happening.

Welcome back to the Greens Party. I look forward to working with you to deliver a parliamentary agreement that reflects a very strong, progressive vote for our two parties in this election. Ninety-four thousand people voted for the Labor Party; just over 25,000 voted for the Greens Party: a strong, progressive vote. Our shared commitment to improve health care, education, transport and housing in our city will make life better for Canberrans, and I look forward to working with both of you to achieve these important goals.

I want to thank everyone in the Labor family who contributed to our election victory: all of candidates who worked incredibly hard; our staff, lead by campaign director, Matt Byrne and my chief of staff, Jamie Driscoll; our thousands of members, supporters and volunteers across the city. I want to thank my family and my partner, Anthony, who is up the back there, for their love and their patience, frankly, and their support for everything I want to achieve in public life.

Finally I thank the people of the ACT for putting their trust in me and this energetic and renewed Labor team. We will get to work today and later this afternoon I will announce the ministerial portfolios. My team will bring forward a significant legislative program when sittings resume in this place in December. Let me assure the people of the ACT that their government will work hard and work smart for them every day to keep the Canberra we love but make it even better.

Leader of the Opposition

MADAM SPEAKER: Under standing order 5A, the Leader of the Opposition shall be the leader of the largest non-government party, with the consent of that member. As Mr Coe, as leader of the Canberra Liberals, is the leader of the largest non-government party, I now seek his consent to being the Leader of the Opposition.

MR COE (Yerrabi—Leader of the Opposition): Thank you, Madam Speaker. I give my consent.

MADAM SPEAKER: Mr Coe, can you please take your seat at the table.

MR COE: I seek leave to make a statement.

Leave granted.

MR COE: I stand this morning honoured to be one of 11 Liberal MLAs determined to serve Canberra to the best of our ability. Madam Speaker, firstly I acknowledge your election as Speaker. I thank Mrs Dunne for her service as Speaker in the Eighth Assembly. I believe that Mrs Dunne carried out her duties with distinction and with honour. Whilst, of course, I wish she were still in the Speaker's role, as Liberal MLAs we are pleased to have her full time on the opposition benches alongside us.

The Canberra Liberals have much to be proud of. At the last election under Jeremy Hanson's strong leadership, the party received 89,000 votes and had 11 members elected. The Canberra Liberals had a united term and we had a disciplined campaign where we put forward policies and issues that we believed in. Jeremy has served Canberra well and continues to do so.

I would like to acknowledge the service of one now-retired MLA, Mr Val Jeffrey. Whilst Val served in this place for only a matter of months—perhaps even weeks—his commitment to the region is legendary and his election to the Assembly on countback after Mr Smyth's resignation was fitting recognition of his decades of service to the territory.

Madam Speaker, each of the seven Liberal MLAs recontesting this election was returned. Importantly, we are joined by four impressive newly elected Liberal MLAs. In the south, in Brindabella, Mark Parton's experience in media, communications and business makes him a very effective advocate for this city.

In Kurrajong, Elizabeth Lee's considerable background in law and, of course, her engaging personality, will be an asset for this Assembly. In Ginninderra, Elizabeth Kikkert's tremendous work ethic, family values and commitment to fairness and justice will help to ensure that all voices are heard. And finally, in Yerrabi, James Milligan's small business experience, community links and collaborative approach will be to all our benefit.

Each of these people, and indeed all people in the chamber, has a story to tell and a network of family, friends and broader community who made our elections possible. I look forward to their maiden speeches when we will hear of the journeys they have travelled and their plans for the future.

Madam Speaker, I would of course like to acknowledge the new Labor members of the Assembly and also the return of Ms Le Couteur. Ms Le Couteur and I worked on the planning committee together in the Seventh Assembly and I have no doubt that she will again bring a high level of commitment to the Assembly.

To be a representative of our community is a rare privilege. There were many people who put themselves forward for election but who were not successful on this occasion. Especially to the Liberal candidates who did not win a seat, I thank them for their contribution. Their hard work was invaluable and all of the elected Liberal MLAs owe them our thanks.

Earlier in the year I joked with Mr Barr that with this new central table, one way or another, the Canberra Liberals would be getting closer to government. Unfortunately, it is not the side of the chamber that we were hoping for. However, now we are certainly physically closer to the government and I am sure that there will be many issues where the opposition and the government are of one mind.

Of course, there will be times when there is fierce disagreement, and that is not a bad thing. What will define us all is the manner in which we handle those disagreements. It is incumbent upon all of us to do so in a dignified and respectful way.

One of the very important roles of the opposition is to scrutinise government decisions and processes, and we will be vigilant in doing so. We will do what we can to ensure integrity in government. We will not tolerate misuse of public money, questionable property deals or important decisions made in secret.

The Canberra Liberals will also put forward ideas for reform. Just as we will judge government proposals on their merit, we hope that the government will judge opposition proposals on their merit too. Governments are not the sole repository of information and ideas and worthy proposals must be supported, regardless of their genesis.

I would like to thank my wife Yasmin, who is here in the gallery today. Supporting me and giving birth to our second baby during estimates of an election year certainly added another variable to the campaign. I am so grateful for her support and tolerance, as I am to my broader family.

Madam Speaker, all of us have convictions and beliefs that are central to who we are. I have no doubt that Canberra has elected 25 people who are absolutely committed to making this city a better place. If we are to truly make the most of this diversity, we must also accept that there will be differences of opinion. The different perspectives that determine how we should make Canberra a better place show the strength of our democracy. They are not a weakness.

The opposition is proud to have put forward many ideas and proposals during the recent election campaign. We will continue to make sure that nobody is left behind and that Canberra does not become entrenched as a two-paced society. We must make sure that government services are of a standard befitting the national capital of what is the best country in the world. We must make sure that people are not priced out of our community and we must make sure that Canberra is a place where people can genuinely seek opportunities and fulfil their potential.

Finally, I offer my congratulations to Mr Barr, Ms Berry and the Labor team for their election to government. I wish them well in the coming four years.

In conclusion, I thank my colleagues for the opportunity to lead the Canberra Liberals. I will do my best to represent the party, the Canberra Liberal MLAs and Canberra in this place.

Statement by member

MR RATTENBURY (Kurrajong), by leave: I rise on behalf of the Greens today and I would like to begin by welcoming my colleague Caroline Le Couteur, a member for Murrumbidgee, back to the ACT Legislative Assembly. We are pleased to have doubled our representation, and it is great to have Caroline back as a both very experienced and committed MLA. I am proud of the things we achieved over the last term of the Assembly, and with two of us I believe we can achieve even more.

Madam Speaker, I congratulate you on your election to the position. It can be a very challenging role in this place at times and, with the two leaders even closer together, I am sure that there will be moments when you struggle to maintain control of the house. I wish you well in your role. I would like to thank Mrs Dunne for her service over the past four years as the Speaker of the Eighth Assembly.

I would like to congratulate and welcome all of the new MLAs who have been elected to this Assembly this term. The move to 25 gives this chamber a very different feel. I hope you all enjoy your time here. It is a privilege to be invited to serve our community in this way.

I would also like to acknowledge those members of the Eighth Assembly who have left us: Dr Bourke, Mr Hinder, Mr Corbell and Mr Jeffrey. I know that each of them made their own contribution to the Assembly. I wish them well in their next endeavours.

I would like to congratulate Mr Barr on his election as Chief Minister. The Greens have opted to support Mr Barr as Chief Minister for the term of the Ninth Assembly because we believe that, despite taking different policies to the election on a range of matters, we also have a great deal in common and we have been able to work together to deliver a shared agenda in the parliamentary agreement that delivers for the Canberra community.

Equally, we were not able to support the Canberra Liberals as the alternative government. We did make that clear during the election campaign and we did so because we could not condone or support the proposal to tear up the light rail contract. We did not believe that that was a position that the Greens would accept or could accept. We do, however, look forward to being able to work with our colleagues in the Liberal Party through the course of this term on areas of common interest as we have been able to do in previous Assemblies.

Caroline and I welcome the signing of the parliamentary agreement to deliver progressive and stable government in the ACT over the next four years. Within the agreement there is a shared commitment to deliver an ACT integrity commission, stage 2 of light rail and more investment in affordable housing, means-based education funding and more public transport for the ACT.

The Greens are particularly pleased to have secured the Labor Party's support for an office of mental health, more funding for walking and cycling infrastructure and a drug and alcohol court. These were important things that the community want. They told us about them in the course of the election campaign. We will now work to deliver them over the coming four years.

We are pleased to see a 20 per cent reduction in the number of poker machine licences in the ACT over the next four years. Problem gambling continues to be a blight on our community, one that ripples through many homes and workplaces. We will continue to advocate over the coming term for stronger gambling harm minimisation measures, including bet limits and pre-commitment measures.

We are pleased to have a common commitment to more affordable housing and reforming our planning system. This parliamentary agreement is just the starting point of our work together to make sure progressive voters' voices are heard in the Assembly over the next four years.

All of us will continue to passionately advocate for action on climate change. This is something that the Greens know is one of the key issues facing us at a global level, and we must play our part, as local citizens, to contribute to humanity's efforts to address this very challenging issue. We look forward to the implementation of the ACT's 100 per cent renewable electricity target, a move to have more clean transport and our public transport delivered by renewable sources and to begin the discussion about how we transition our community away from the use of natural gas as one of the remaining fossil fuels in our system.

The Greens have made our priorities very clear through the course of the election campaign and, equally, the community have made theirs clear to us. We will spend the next four years delivering more and better public transport and more affordable housing. We will seek to restore community confidence in elements of our democracy and we will stand up to the gambling lobby in this city.

Caroline and I are proud to be representing the tens of thousands of people who voted Green this election because they want their representatives to stand for the people, the environment and the future of our city.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the candidates who stood for the Greens. There were 15 of us. They all put an enormous effort into the campaign. I would also like to thank the vast team of volunteers who gave up so much of their time because of their passionate belief in making a better Canberra and a better planet. Finally, I congratulate our campaign leadership team, Maiy Azize and Sophie Trevitt, who led our team so ably and with such conviction and with such energy through the course of the campaign.

Over the past few months the Greens have spoken to tens of thousands of Canberrans and we have heard them loudly and clearly. Canberrans want their voices to be heard in the Assembly. They want to have confidence that decisions are being made with them and not just for them, and they want to be represented by politicians who are not afraid to stand up for issues that are important and to confront challenging issues.

The Greens are determined to put the community back at the front and centre of our Assembly. We have a clear vision for our city and our future. We believe in a Canberra that has fast and efficient public transport, a Canberra where everyone has somewhere safe and decent to live and a Canberra where Canberrans can have confidence in our democracy. We can assure the community and our colleagues in this place that they are the issues that we will continue to strive to make progress on so that Canberra can be the best possible city for all of us.

Visitors

MADAM SPEAKER: Members, I acknowledge the presence in the gallery of a number of former members of the Assembly. On behalf of members of this, the Ninth Assembly, I bid you a very warm welcome and return to the Assembly.

Election of Deputy Speaker

MADAM SPEAKER: We now move to the nomination of candidates for Deputy Speaker. Standing order 4 requires that the Assembly proceed, at its first sitting after an election, to elect a Deputy Speaker.

MR COE (Ginninderra—Leader of the Opposition) (10.58): I nominate Mrs Vicki Dunne, and I move:

That Mrs Dunne be elected Deputy Speaker.

MADAM SPEAKER: Mrs Dunne, do you accept the nomination?

MRS DUNNE: I do.

MADAM SPEAKER: Is there any further proposal? There being no further proposal, I declare Mrs Vicki Dunne, the member proposed, to have been elected as Deputy Speaker.
